SIL Resources and Tools Highlight

Have you had a chance to check out the System Improvement Leads (SIL) Online Learning Center?

The Online Learning Center has four sections housing video resources to support Continuous Improvement, Technical Support, High Leverage Practices, and Data Literacy.

This month in the Continuous Improvement section of our Online Learning Center, we'd like to highlight Small Moves for Big Impact, sponsored by System Improvement Leads (SIL) and Huron Studer Education. Read More...

SIL Summit Edition

SIL Overall Experience pictures, quotes, line-up

Improvers from all over the state of California gathered in Monterey to celebrate improvement in special education. Attendees heard from leaders in the field and accessed valuable resources focused around improving data use and governance, embracing high-leverage practices for students with disabilities, and utilizing a systematic approach to launch an LEA's improvement journey. SIL Summit

Participants bring a wide range of experiences in continuous improvement.

Monterey Bay offered a beautiful backdrop for the SIL Summit, which afforded attendees an opportunity to hear from educators across the state of California about how the use of continuous improvement is positively impacting their students. Summit participants brought with them a wide range of experience, both in years in education as well as experience in the use of continuous improvement methodologies. Read More.

SIL Summit - Data

If there was one word that was woven throughout nearly every presentation at the SIL Summit, it was data. Read More...

SIL Summit - HLP SEL

Being an educator in today's post-pandemic world means integrating and managing many initiatives and resources. In response to this need, SIL Improvement Facilitators Ashley MacGavin and Shannon Goodbeau-Gorlicki worked in collaboration with Novak Education to develop a helpful and easy-to-use resource to connect educators with aligned practices to support their students' social-emotional learning.
